In German history this is known as Kristallnacht, or the " Night of the Broken Glass. " Meg Wiviott lessens the terror of Kristallnacht by creating the main character, a Berlin cat named Benno, and following his journey throughout the days leading up to and including Nov. 9-10, 1938. It is a sobering tale. Benno lives a pleasant life in Berlin.

Benno was a mottled orange and white cat who lived at Number 5 Rosenstrasse. He was curled up in the window for everyone to admire, for you see he belonged to everyone in the neighborhood. Hans the Hausmeister made sure he had a warm, cozy bed to cuddle up in at night and some "fresh milk" to soothe his tummy.
