The Department of Economics is a leading research department, consistently ranked in the top 20 economics departments worldwide. This is reflected in the 2014 Research Assessment Exercise which recognised the Department's outstanding contribution to the field. According to the REF 2014 results, 56 per cent of the Department's research output was graded 4 star (the highest category), indicating that it is 'world-leading'.

Development Economics

In development economics we examine this notion when we look at history versus expectations, work by K. Matsuyama and Paul Krugman. It is interesting, in this regard, to remember that Rostow's Stages of Economic Growth was written as a manifesto for developing economies.

Introduction to Development Economics

Development economics is a branch of economics which deals with economic aspects of the development process in low income countries. Its focus is not only on methods of promoting economic development, economic growth and structural change but also on improving the potential for the mass of the population, for example, through health, education and workplace conditions, whether through public or private channels. Development economics involves the creation of theories and methods that aid in the Development economics - Wikipedia

In the economic study of the public sector, economic and social development is the process by which the economic well-being and quality of life of a nation, region, local community, or an individual are improved according to targeted goals and objectives. The term has been used frequently in the 20th and 21st centuries, but the concept has existed in the West for far longer. "Modernization", "Westernization", and especially "industrialization" are other terms often used while discussing economic

Economic development is a broader concept than economic growth and reflects social and economic progress and requires economic growth. Growth is an important and necessary condition for development, but it is not a sufficient condition. Growth alone cannot guarantee development. One of the most compelling definitions of development is that given by Amartya Sen. According to Sen, development is about creating freedom for people and removing obstacles to greater freedom.

Development Economics, also called Economics for Development, studies how to help low income countries become wealthier, i.e. nations that are going through the transition from being an agricultural economy to an industrial one. Development economics shows how economic analysis can help us better understand the big themes of this century. Globalization and trade, poverty and wealth inequality, for example, are the big themes of the century.
