'On The Brink' is a brand new collection of 20 previously uncomped and absolutely superb UK instrumentals from the 60s and early 70s. We present session men discovering sitars, orchestras getting into the freaky side of things, hip theme tunes, Hammonds, fuzz, brass. Somehow sophisticated and cheesy simultaneously, these acts created their own musical world of Chelsea apartments, mini-mokes ...

If man-made dust is unimportant as a major cause of climatic change, then a strong case can be made that the present cooling trend will, within a decade or so, give way to a pronounced warming induced by carbon dioxide. By analogy with similar events in the past, the natural climatic cooling which, since 1940, has more than compensated for the carbon dioxide effect, will soon bottom out.
