The Misery of the No-Spend Year. Don't believe what you read in The New York Times—a year of no shopping brings no joy whatsoever. On Sunday, The New York Times published an op-ed from Nashville writer Ann Patchett about her year of no shopping (appropriately titled “ My Year of No Shopping ”), and all the wonderful lessons she learned from not buying shit she didn't need — mainly, that she didn't need much shit to begin with.

I'd been doing my own (albeit somewhat lackadaisical) version of the no-spend challenge for years (before meeting my soon-to-be-husband, who comes with 5 children). I hadn't realize that's what I was doing until learning more about minimalist lifestyle/tiny houses and living with a "less is more" approach, and learning just what kind of money it took to run a household with 6 mouths to feed.
